GLENDALE 11 RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION FOR OUTSTANDING TV PROGRAMS

GLENDALE, Ariz. – Glendale 11, the city's cable TV station, is the recipient of two Telly Awards in recognition of its outstanding programming. Glendale 11 received Bronze Awards for Glendale Dimensions and This is Glendale.

The Telly Awards honor the best in local, regional and national cable TV commercials and programs, as well as the finest video and film productions. Each year, the Telly Awards receive more than 13,000 entries from 50 states and foreign countries.

Glendale Dimensions is a 30-minute interview show hosted by Glendale City Manager Ed Beasley. The episode that won the Bronze Award features Beasley interviewing Fiesta Bowl President and CEO John Junker. The show, taped at the Fiesta Bowl's new head quarters, takes a comprehensive look at the new partnership between the city and the Fiesta Bowl.

This is Glendale is a seven-minute promotional video showcasing the many reasons to work, live and play in Glendale. It includes interviews with city leaders, residents and city partners, as well as a look at the past, present and future of Glendale.

"It's an honor to receive a highly respected national award for our quality programs for the third consecutive year," said Julie Frisoni, Communications Director for city of Glendale. "The Telly Awards highlight our high standards of excellence and the importance of providing our residents with information they can trust and enjoy."

Glendale 11 airs on Cox and Qwest Channel 11, 24-hours a day, seven days a week. For complete viewer's guide, visit www.glendaleaz.com/glendale11.
